

MAURIZIO PARISI, Recorder

He was born in Palermo. He graduated with honors in flute at the Conservatorio Vincenzo Bellini in Palermo, Sicily, under the guidance of Piero Cartosio. He studied with Amico Dolci, Dario Lo Cicero and Giorgio Matteoli. From 1995 to 2003 he attended recorder and music ensemble courses at the International Festival of Early Music of Polizzi Generosa and Madonie. In July 2002 he took part in the masterclass by Daniel Brüggen in Urbino, and in July of 2005 in that of Dan Laurin in Bolzano for Antiqua.bz, which will follow after the masterclass held at the Conservatory of Vicenza in March 2006. He attended three years of Ancient Instruments Ensemble of the Conservatory of Palermo by Andrea Fossà. In July 2002, he was in Urbino, where he played in the Orchestra of the Italian Federation of Ancient Music directed by Enrico Gatti. In September 2004 he played at the Festival of Nations in Città di Castello in Umbria and in the Festival of Erice, participating in performances of the Solemn Vespers "Selva Morale and spiritual" by Claudio Monteverdi with the Orchestra and Chorus of the Study of Ancient Music "Antonio Il Verso" directed by Gabriel Garrido. In 2007 participated in the representation of Dafne by Marco da Gagliano with the ensemble Antonio Il Verso, in the prestigious Maggio Musicale Fiorentino. He very often plays in concerts as a soloist, in duo and in various chamber music groups, performing in Italy and abroad in places such as Germany (Stuttgart, Berlin, Hamburg), Estonia (Tallinn), Britain (London, Cambridge), Canada (Toronto). He has worked with the Sicilian Baroque orchestra "Les Elements" and the Study of Ancient Music "Antonio Il Verso". He's the founding member of the Daphne Recorder Quartet. He is mainly devoted to the repertoire from the early and later Baroque period, performing original compositions or arrangements for recorder, as well as original contemporary music for recorder. He uses copies of original instruments. He is currently teaching the recorder at the music school "Regina Margherita" in Palermo.